

CONTENTS

Introduction	1
Austin M. Patterson, 221 North King St., Xenia, Ohio
Letter of Greeting	3
A. F. Holleman, University of Amsterdam, Amsterdam, Holland
Some General Principles of Inorganic Chemical Nomenclature	5
Henry Bassett, Geological Survey Department, Dodoma, Tanganyika, Africa
Nomenclature of Coordination Compounds and Its Relation to General Inorganic Nomenclature	9
W. Conrad Fernelius, The Pennsylvania State College, State College, Pa.
Problems of an International Chemical Nomenclature	38
K. A. Jensen, Chemical Laboratory, University of Copenhagen, Copenhagen, Denmark
Chemical Nomenclature in Britain Today	49
R. S. Cahn and A. D. Mitchell, The Chemical Society, London, England
Chemical Nomenclature in the United States	55
E. J. Crane, Chemical Abstracts, The Ohio State University, Columbus 10, Ohio
Basic Features of Nomenclature in Organic Chemistry	65
Friedrich Richter, Beilstein-Institut, Frankfurt a. M., Hoechst, Germany
Organic Chemical Nomenclature, Past, Present, and Future	75
P. E. Verkade, Laboratory of Organic Chemistry, Technical University, Delft, Netherlands
Work of Commission on Nomenclature of Biological Chemistry	83
J. E. Courtois, Faculty of Pharmacy, Paris, France
Nomenclature in Industry	95
H. S. Nutting, The Dow Chemical Co., Midland, Mich.
Development of Chemical Symbols and Their Relation to Nomenclature	99
G. Malcolm Dyson, Loughborough, England
The Role of Terminology in Indexing, Classifying, and Coding	106
James W. Perry, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, Mass.	