Part I. Theoretical and Methodological Issues

Chapter 1. Theoretical Approaches to Individual-Level Change in HIV Risk Behavior

Introduction	3
The health Belief Model	5
The AIDS Risk Reduction Model	10
The Transtheoretical Model	17
The Social Cognitive Theory	23
The Theory of Reasoned Action	29
The Theory of Planned Behavior	35
The Information Motivation Behavioral Skills Model	38
Comparison and Critique of the Models Discussed	45
References	48

Chapter 2. Diffusion Theory: A Theoretical Approach to Promote Community Level Change

Introduction	57
The Diffusion Model	58
The Diffusion of AIDS in the United States	59
Diffusion Strategies for HIV Prevention in San Francisco	60
Entertainment Education for HIV Prevention in Tanzania	62
Lessons Learned	64
Modifications in Diffusion Theory	65
References	65

Chapter 3. Methodological Issues in HIV Behavioral Interventions

Introduction	67
Experimental Design Issues	67
Sampling and Retention Issues	69
Measurement Issues	71
Reactivity	74
Analysis and Modeling Issues	75
Summary and New Research Suggestions	77
References	78

Part II. Applications to Behavioral Interventions

Chapter 4. School-Based Interventions to Prevent Unprotected Sex and HIV among Adolescents

Introduction	83
Antecedents of Adolescent Sexual and Contraceptive Behaviors	84
School-Based Programs	85
Studies under Review	86

Curriculum-Based Sex and HIV Education Programs	87
School-Based and School-Linked Health Centers	92
School Condom Availability Programs	93
Multicomponent Programs	94
Youth Development Programs	95
Summary and Conclusions	95
References	97
Chapter 5. HIV Behavioral Interventions for Adolescents in Community Settings
Introduction	103
The Risk of Sexually Transmitted HIV Infection among Adolescents	103
Factors Associated with Adolescents HIV Risk-Associated Sexual Behavior	104
Behavioral Interventions to Reduce the Risk of Sexually Transmitted HIV Infection: Key Characteristics of Studies	109
Effects of Interventions on Behavioral Outcomes	113
Effects of Interventions on Mediator Variables	115
Potential Moderators of Intervention Effects	115
Characteristics of Effective Interventions	117
Summary and Conclusions	119
References	124
Chapter 6. Interventions for High-Risk Youth
Introduction	129
Epidemiology	130
Theoretical Basis for Behavior Change	134
Future Directions	139
Summary	141
References	142
Chapter 7. The Role of Drug Abuse Treatment in the Prevention of HIV Infection
Introduction	147
Treatment as Prevention	147
Drug Treatment Participation and HIV Risk Reduction	149
Biological Outcomes: HIV Prevalence and Incidence and Treatment Participation	153
Conclusion	155
References	156
Chapter 8. HIV/AIDS Prevention for Drug Users in Natural Settings
Introduction	159
Epidemiology of HIV Infection among IDUs	159
HIV/AIDS Prevention for IDUs	161
Limitations of Prevention Research	169
Harm Reduction	172
References	173

Chapter 9. Interventions for Sexually Active Heterosexual Women
Introduction	179
Epidemiology of Women and AIDS	180
Cross-Sectional and Longitudinal Research	180
Prevention	185
Summary and Conclusions	195
References	197
Chapter 10. Interventions to Reduce HIV Transmission in Homosexual Men
Risks Amenable to Intervention in Gay and Bisexual Men	201
Risk Reduction Interventions for Gay and Bisexual Men	207
Summary	214
References	214
Chapter 11. HIV Prevention among African-American and Latino Men Who Have Sex with Men
Introduction	217
Cross-Sectional Studies with African-American MSM	217
Cross-Sectional Studies with Latino MSM	218
Prevention among African-American and Latino MSM	220
Conclusions	221
References	223
Chapter 12. HIV Prevention in Developing Countries
Epidemiology of HIV in Developing Countries	225
Evaluation of HIV/AIDS Prevention Interventions in Developing Countries	232
Implications for Prevention Strategies	236
Future Directions for Prevention Research	239
References	241
Chapter 13. HIV Prevention in Industrialized Countries
Introduction	245
Strategies of Intervention	247
HIV-Related Health Promotion in Selected Industrialized Countries	248
Structural and Enabling Factors	257
Summary and Future Directions	258
References	260
Part III. Implications of HIV Intervention Research
Chapter 14. Technology Transfer: Achieving the Promise of HIV Prevention
Challenges to Prevention Capacity	267
The Uptake of New Prevention Technology	268
Technology Transfer versus Technology Uptake	272
A Typology of HIV Prevention Technologies	273
Facilitating the Uptake of HIV Prevention Technologies	280
References	281

Chapter 15. The Economics of HIV Primary Prevention
Overview of Research Literature	286
Increasing Applications of Economic Evaluation	290
Other Research Needs	291
Implications for Decision Makers	292
Conclusion	294
References	294
Selected, Additional Bibliography	295
Chapter 16. Ethical Issues of Behavioral Interventions for HIV Prevention
Background	297
The Nuremberg Code and the Helsinki Declaration	297
Confronting the Issues	300
Justice	307
References	308
Chapter 17. Looking Forward: Future Directions for HIV Prevention Research
Introduction	311
HIV Prevention Building a Science of Prevention from an Interdisciplinary Perspective	312
HIV Prevention Needs to Target Multiple Levels of Causality	312
Linking HIV Prevention with Sexually Transmitted Disease Detection and Treatment	313
Prevention Interventions for People Living with HIV Remains an Understudied Effects	315
In Search of New and Promising Theoretical Orientations	316
The Need to Improve HIV Prevention Technology Transfer	317
Need for Public and Health Policy Supportive of HIV Prevention Research and Practice	318
The Need for Biological Outcomes in HIV Prevention Research	319
The Need to Measure Cost-Effectiveness in HIV Prevention Research	320
The Need for Structured Reporting of HIV Prevention Interventions	320
Interactions between Spheres of Influences: Lessons for the Future	321
Looking Forward: Summary of Future Directions for HIV Prevention	322
