

CONTENTS

1. The Setting	1
2. The Postwar Period	4
3. The Applied Science of Changing Food Habits	7
4. New Foci of Interest in the Nutritional Field
a. Toxic Foods	8
b. Kwashiorkor, Breast Feeding, and Weaning	9
c. Growth, Maturation, and Aging	10
d. Food Additives, Contamination, Pollution, and Radiation	11
e. Teeth and the Significance of Diet for Studies of Human Evolution	12
f. Unusual Situations and Studies of Men under Stress	13
g. Individual Therapy and Psychosomatic Disorders	13
h. Social Psychological Studies	15
i. Studies on the Taste Factor	16
j. Culturally Acceptable Supplementary Foods	17
k. Instrumentation	18
5. Changes in Cultural Anthropological Theory Relevant to the Study of Food Habits	19
6. Needed: A Multidimensional Code for Describing a Dietary Pattern	22
7. The Wider Food Situation	24
Bibliographical Note	29
Bibliography	29