

---

Contents

---

---

Foreword	ix
Preface	xi
Acknowledgments	xiii
GLASS MELTING
Recent Developments of Batch and Cullet Preheating in Europe—Practical Experiences and Implications Philipp Zippe	3
Oxy-Fuel Conversion Reduces Fuel Consumption in Fiberglass Melting John Rossi, Michael Habel, Kevin Lievre, Xiaoyi He, and Matthew Watson	19
Solar Glass Melting Matthias Lindig	33
Integrated Air Quality Control System for Float Glass Furnace Michael Cheng and Nathan Blanton	39
GLASS SCIENCE, DEFECTS, AND SAFETY
Heavy Metal Issues—In and Out of Glass C. Philip Ross	53
A Look at the Chemical Strengthening Process: Alkali Aluminosilicate Glasses vs. Soda-Lime Glass Sinue Gomez, Matthew J. Dejneka, Adam J. Ellison, and Katherine R. Rossington	61

Studying Bubble Glass Defects That are Caused by Refractory Materials Jiri Ullrich and Erik Muijsenberg	67
Analysis of Cord and Stones in Glass Henry Dimmick, Neal Nichols, and Gary Smay	81
“Cat Scratch” Cord Dispersal Les Gaskell	87
Tools Used to Improve Operational Safety in Johns Manville Glass Plants Noel Camp	95

REFRACTORIES AND RECYCLING

Extra Clear Glass Refractory Selection: A Follow Up L. Massard, M. Gaubil, and J. Poiret	107
Refractory Issues and Glass Processing and Preventative Solutions Paul Myers	115
Fuel Savings with High Emissivity Coatings Tom Kleeb and Bill Fausey	125
Regenerator Temperature Modeling for Proper Refractory Selection Elias Carrillo and Mathew Wheeler	137
Thinking Green: Recycling in the Refractory Industry Werner Odreitz and Matt Wheeler	157
Recycling of Post-Consumer Glass: Energy Savings, CO <sub>2</sub> Emission Reduction, Effects on Glass Quality and Glass Melting Ruud Beerkens, Goos Kers, and Engelbert van Santen	167
Characterization and Improvement of Gob Delivery Systems Braden McDermott, Xu Ding, and Jonathan Simon	195

CONTROLS AND RAW MATERIALS

Model Based Process Control for Glass Furnace Operation Piet van Santen, Leo Huisman and Sander van Deelen	205
Taking Full Benefit of Oxygen Sensors and Automatic Control Peter Hemmann	215
Flue Gas Treatment in the Glass Industry: Dry Process and Calcium-based Sorbents Amandine Gambin and Xavier Pettiau	225

To Wet or Not to Wet—That is the Question—Part A Douglas H. Davis and Christopher J. Hoyle	235
A Historical Perspective on Silica and the Glass Industry in the USA Paul F. Guttman	249
Author Index	261